Iceland South Coast
Campervan Itinerary

March 6–10, 2026 • KEF → South Coast → Eystrahorn → Golden Circle → Reykjavík → KEF

🌦️ 5-Day Weather Outlook (AccuWeather, Feb 26)

Forecast source: AccuWeather monthly prediction for Vík, Höfn, and Reykjavík, retrieved Feb 26, 2026. These are extended-range forecasts and will shift as your trip approaches — re-check 48 hrs before departure.

Day	Date	Location	Forecast	High	Low
1	3/6 Fri	KEF → Vík	Cloudy, rain	39°F / 4°C	37°F / 3°C
2	3/7 Sat	Vík → Skaftafell	Rain/snow mix	42°F / 6°C	32°F / 0°C
3	3/8 Sun	Skaftafell → Höfn	Rain/snow mix	38°F / 3°C	32°F / 0°C
4	3/9 Mon	Höfn → Selfoss	Rain/snow mix	43°F / 6°C	35°F / 2°C
5	3/10 Tue	Selfoss → KEF	Rain/snow mix	44°F / 7°C	38°F / 3°C

Key takeaway: Every day has precipitation. Day 1 is the mildest (rain only). Days 2–4 are colder with rain/snow mix, especially at elevation. Day 5 is the warmest day of the trip (44°F) — good news for your Reykjavík walk. Wind is the biggest hazard throughout; check vedur.is each morning for gust speeds.

South coast wind warning: Between Höfn and Vík, gusts regularly exceed 80 km/h (50 mph) in March, enough to destabilize a campervan. If vedur.is shows orange/red wind alerts, do not drive exposed stretches — wait it out.

Route & Scope

Out-and-back along the south coast: KEF → east to Eystrahorn/Krossanesfjall → return west → Golden Circle → Reykjavík → KEF. Daylight runs ~8:10am–7:05pm (~11 hrs). Civil twilight adds ~30 min on each end, giving usable light from ~7:30am to ~7:45pm.

Day 1 — Fri 3/6: KEF → Hverageði → South Coast → Vík

Driving: ~3 hrs | Overnight: Vík Campsite

> 🌧️ Cloudy with rain throughout | High 39°F / 4°C Low 37°F / 3°C
> ⚠️ Narrow temp spread = persistent damp. Waterproofs essential all day. Reykjadalur hike will be wet but the hot river is worth it in rain. Paths may be slippery — microspikes recommended.

You arrive KEF at 6:30am and pick up the camper at 7:30am.

7:30–9am: Pick up van at KEF, stock up at Bónus supermarket in Reykjavík, fuel up

~9:30am: Arrive Hverageði (~45 min from KEF) — Iceland's "Hot Spring Town"; walk through the Hverageði Geothermal Park

> ~10:15am: 🥾 BONUS HIKE: Reykjadalur Hot River Trail
> 6.4 km round trip, ~2 hrs, moderate. Hike up the geothermal valley to a natural warm river (36–40°C). Bring bathing suit under clothes + towel. Microspikes for icy patches. The rain actually makes the hot river soak more satisfying.

~12:30pm: Back at van — dry off, grab lunch, drive east

~1:30pm: Seljalandsfoss — walk-behind waterfall; expect spray + rain = full waterproofs; 45 min

~2:15pm: Gljúfrabúi — hidden waterfall inside a canyon slot 500m away; 30 min

~3pm: Skógafoss — climb the 370-step staircase for glacier and coast views; 45 min

> 🐉 GoT: Season 8, Episode 1 — Jon Snow and Daenerys land their dragons at the base of this waterfall and share their first kiss.

~4pm: Dyrhólaey Peninsula — 120m basalt sea arch, sweeping black sand panorama; 45 min

⚠️ Wind advisory: Dyrhólaey is extremely exposed. If gusts exceed 20 m/s, skip the upper viewpoint — view from lower parking only.

~5pm: Reynisfjara Black Sand Beach — basalt column cave, Reynisdrangar sea stacks; 45 min

> 🐉 GoT: Season 7, Episode 5 — the beach served as the coastline near Eastwatch-by-the-Sea.

⚠️ Sneaker wave warning: Never turn your back on the ocean at Reynisfjara. Stay well above the wet sand line. Waves surge without warning, especially in storms.

~6pm: Arrive Vík — fuel up, resupply at village grocery

🍽️ Dinner rec: Súður-Vík — hillside restaurant, local favorite. Lamb soup ~2,800 ISK, fish & chips ~3,200 ISK. Cozy with great views over town. (Alternatively: Black Crust Pizzeria for their unique charcoal-crust pizza, ~3,500 ISK)

🏕️ Overnight: Vík Campsite (Víkurbraut 5 — year-round, heated common room, walking distance to village)

Weather	🌧️ Cloudy, rain | 39°/37°F
Morning	KEF → Hverageði → Reykjadalur Hot River Hike
Afternoon	Seljalandsfoss → Gljúfrabúi → Skógafoss 🐉 → Dyrhólaey → Reynisfjara 🐉 → Vík
Night	Vík Campsite
Driving	~3 hrs

Day 2 — Sat 3/7: Vík → Eldhraun → Fjaðrárgljúfur → Skaftafell

Driving: ~2 hrs | Overnight: Skaftafell Campsite | HIKE #1

> 🌨️ Rain/snow mix | High 42°F / 6°C Low 32°F / 0°C
> ⚠️ Wider temp range = possible clearing spells between showers. The 32°F low means freezing conditions on the Svartifoss hike — microspikes essential. Snow may dust higher ground.

~8:30am: Depart Vík at sunrise

~9am: Eldhraun Lava Field — world's largest lava flow carpeted in luminous green moss; 30 min

~9:45am: Kirkjugolf ("Church Floor") — hexagonal basalt columns; 5-min walk from parking

~11am: Fjaðrárgljúfur Canyon — 2km rim trail above 100m-deep gorge; 1.5 hrs

> 🐉 GoT: Season 8, Episode 1 — Jon and Daenerys fly their dragons through this canyon before landing at Skógafoss.
> ⚠️ The canyon is sometimes closed for environmental protection — check status at Kirkjubæjarklaustur visitor center.

~12:45pm: Fuel & lunch at Kirkjubæjarklaustur (last reliable services before Skaftafell)

~2pm: Arrive Skaftafell / Vatnajökull National Park

> ~2:30–5:30pm: 🦶 MODERATE HIKE #1: Svartifoss–Sjónarnípa Loop
> 6.4 km, ~3 hrs. Basalt-column waterfall + panoramic glacier views from Sjónarnípa ridge. Trail may have icy patches at 32°F — microspikes strongly recommended. The rain/snow mix makes the black basalt columns even more dramatic.

🏕️ Overnight: Skaftafell Campsite (inside Vatnajökull NP, year-round, heated facilities)

Weather	🌨️ Rain/snow mix | 42°/32°F
Morning	Eldhraun → Kirkjugolf → Systrafoss → Fjaðrárgljúfur Canyon 🐉
Afternoon	Kirkjubæjarklaustur → Skaftafell → Svartifoss–Sjónarnípa Hike
Night	Skaftafell Campsite
Driving	~2 hrs

Day 3 — Sun 3/8: Skaftafell → Jökulsárlón → Höfn → Krossanesfjall

Driving: ~3.5–4 hrs | Overnight: Höfn Campsite | LONG DAY

> 🌨️ Rain/snow mix, coldest day | High 38°F / 3°C Low 32°F / 0°C
> ⚠️ Coldest day of the trip. Snow likely on higher ground near glaciers. Wind + cold = significant chill factor at Svínafellsjökull and Krossanesfjall. Layer aggressively. Diamond Beach ice may be harder to photograph in flat grey light.

The designated long driving day — eastward to Krossanesfjall (turnaround), then back to Höfn.

~8am: Depart Skaftafell

~8:30am: Svínafellsjökull Glacier Tongue — walk to the snout for up-close ice views; 45 min

> 🐉 GoT: Season 2 — this glacier doubled as the frozen landscape "Beyond the Wall" where the Night's Watch captured Ygritte.

~9:30am: Fjallsárlón Glacier Lagoon — quieter sibling to Jökulsárlón; 45 min

~10:30am: Jökulsárlón Glacier Lagoon — floating blue-white icebergs, possible harbor seals; 1 hr

~11:45am: Diamond Beach (5 min away) — translucent ice blocks on black sand; 30 min

~12:30pm: Hofskirkja — Iceland's last surviving turf-roofed church; 15-min detour

~1pm: Arrive Höfn — fuel, groceries, lunch; 1 hr

> 🍽️ Lunch rec: Hafnarbuðin — harbour-side diner, the budget way to try Höfn's famous langoustine. Langoustine baguette ~1,800 ISK (~$13) — generous filling, fresh, and a fraction of sit-down prices at Pakkhús (5,000+ ISK). Fish & chips also excellent. Locals eat here. Free coffee.

~2:30pm: Vestrahorn / Stokksnes Peninsula — iconic mountain over black sand dunes + Viking village; 45 min. 💰 1,100 ISK/pp (~$8) at Viking Café

~4pm: Eystrahorn / Krossanesfjall — turnaround point; walk the black sand base; 1 hr

> ⚠️ Wind check: Stokksnes and Krossanesfjall are fully exposed. At 38°F with wind chill, real feel may be in the mid-20s°F. If vedur.is shows gusts >20 m/s, shorten the Krossanesfjall stop.

~5:30pm: Drive back to Höfn (~40 min)

🏕️ Overnight: Höfn Campsite – Hamrar (year-round, full facilities, walking distance to town)

Weather	🌨️ Rain/snow, coldest day | 38°/32°F
Morning	Svínafellsjökull 🐉 → Fjallsárlón → Jökulsárlón → Diamond Beach → Hofskirkja
Afternoon	Höfn lunch → Vestrahorn → Krossanesfjall (turnaround) → Höfn
Night	Höfn Campsite (Hamrar)
Driving	~3.5–4 hrs

Day 4 — Mon 3/9: Höfn → Skaftafell (Hike #2) → Selfoss

Driving: ~3.5 hrs | Overnight: Selfoss Campsite | HIKE #2

🏕️ CHANGE FROM V2: Overnight moved from Skógar to Selfoss. This adds ~1 hr of driving to Day 4 (still within daylight) but saves 45 min on Day 5 morning, expanding the Reykjavík window.

> 🌨️ Rain/snow mix, warming trend | High 43°F / 6°C Low 35°F / 2°C
> ⚠️ Warmer than Day 3 but still wet. Kristínartindar summit (1,126m) will be significantly colder and windier than road level — expect near-freezing at the top with wind chill well below. If vedur.is shows sustained winds >15 m/s, consider the lower-elevation Skaftafellsheiði plateau trail instead.

~8am: Depart Höfn west (~1.5 hrs to Skaftafell)

> ~9:30am: 🦶 MODERATE HIKE #2: Kristínartindar Summit Trail
> 10 km, ~4 hrs, moderate-strenuous. Climbs to 1,126m for a 360° panorama over Vatnajökull, the south coast, and the sea. At summit, expect temperatures 5–10°C colder than road level with stronger gusts. Full winter hiking gear: microspikes, wind shell, warm layers, gloves, hat.

⚠️ Summit backup: If conditions are poor at altitude, bail to Skaftafellsheiði plateau trail (~5 km, 2.5 hrs, lower elevation) with glacier views. Ask the ranger at the Skaftafell visitor center for morning conditions.

~2pm: Hike complete; drive west (~1 hr)

~3pm: Núpsstaurskógur — Iceland's largest native birch forest at Lómagnúpur base; 30-min walk

⚠️ Lómagnúpur is notorious for sudden, powerful gusts. Stay in the van if wind is severe.

~4:30pm: Drive west past Skógar, continue to Selfoss (~2 hrs)

~6:15pm: 🧶 Þingborg Wool Shop (8 km east of Selfoss, directly on Route 1)

Local-run wool shop since 1991, housed in a 1927 schoolhouse. Authentic handknit lopapeysa sweaters, sheepskins, blankets, hand-dyed yarn. Knitted by local Icelandic women from Icelandic sheep's wool — not the imported/machine-knit stuff in Reykjavík tourist shops. Prices lower than Reykjavík. Look for the sweater hanging on the fence by the roundabout. 15–20 min.

💰 Free entry. Sweaters ~25,000–40,000 ISK ($180–$290). Ask for a tax-free receipt — reclaim 15% VAT at KEF airport for purchases over 12,000 ISK.

Address: Route 1, Hraungerðishreppur (8 km east of Selfoss) | Check hours: thingborg.is | Tel: 482 1027

~6:30pm: Arrive Selfoss (sunset ~7:05pm — arrives in daylight)

🏕️ Overnight: Selfoss Campsite (year-round, full facilities, heated bathroom block. Selfoss is a proper town: Bónus supermarket, N1 fuel, restaurants, hot pots at Sundhöllin pool)

Weather	🌨️ Rain/snow mix, warming | 43°/35°F
Morning	Höfn → Skaftafell → Kristínartindar Summit Hike (4 hrs)
Afternoon	Núpsstaurskógur → Lómagnúpur → Þingborg Wool Shop 🧶 → Selfoss
Night	Selfoss Campsite (NEW)
Driving	~3.5 hrs

Day 5 — Tue 3/10: Selfoss → Golden Circle → Reykjavík → KEF

Driving: ~2.5 hrs | Fly 5pm KEF

> 🌨️ Rain/snow mix, warmest day of trip | High 44°F / 7°C Low 38°F / 3°C
> ⚠️ The warmest day — good for the Reykjavík walk. Rain/snow mix likely but less biting than previous days. Golden Circle stops will be wet but above freezing.

🏙️ SELFOSS BENEFIT: Starting from Selfoss saves ~45 min vs. Skógar. Selfoss → Þingvellir is only ~45 min, so you can sleep in until 7am and still hit Þingvellir by 8am.

7:00am: Depart Selfoss (Selfoss → Þingvellir ~45 min)

~7:45am: Þingvellir National Park — walk the Almannagjá rift valley; UNESCO site. Walk the Öxarárfoss trail; 1 hr. 💰 Parking 750 ISK/vehicle

> 🐉 GoT: Season 4 — the Almannagjá Gorge was the mountain pass to the Bloody Gate, fortress guarding the Vale of Arryn. Sansa and Littlefinger pass through (S4E5); Arya and the Hound arrive later. The Öxarárfoss waterfall trail is the exact filming location.
>
> Wildling scenes with Ygritte, Tormund, and the cannibal Thenns were also filmed here.

🐉 OPTIONAL BONUS (~30 min detour): Þórufoss Waterfall

On the way to Þingvellir, detour onto Route 48 off Route 36. A quiet 18m waterfall.

> 🐉 GoT: Season 4, Episode 6 — the backdrop when Drogon torches a goatherd's flock.

⚠️ March caveat: Route 48 is gravel and may be icy. Check road.is before committing.

~9am: Drive to Geysir (~45 min)

~9:45am: Geysir Geothermal Area — Strokkur erupts every 6–10 min; 45 min. 💰 Parking 1,000 ISK/vehicle. No entrance fee.

~10:45am: Gullfoss (~10 min) — Iceland's most powerful two-tier waterfall; 45 min. 💰 Free entry, free parking.

~11:30am: Drive to Reykjavík (~1 hr 15 min)

🏙️ Reykjavík Stop (~12:45–3:15pm)

~2.5 hrs downtown (expanded from 1.5 hrs in v3 by cutting Kerið Crater)

~12:45pm: 🗽 Statue of Leif Erikson & Hallgrímskirkja

The bronze statue stands in front of Iceland's largest church at the top of Skólavörðustígur street, overlooking the city. A gift from the United States in 1930 for the 1,000th anniversary of the Althing. Church tower elevator offers panoramic views. 20–25 min.

💰 Church entry: Free. Tower: 1,500 ISK/adult (~$11), 200 ISK children 7–16. Hours: 10am–4:45pm (tower). Closed Sun 10:30am–12:30pm during mass.

Address: Skólavörðustígur 45, 101 Reykjavík

~1:10pm: Walk down Skólavörðustígur to Laugavegur (Reykjavík's main street) — 10 min

~1:20pm: 🎵 Smékkleysa Coffee & Record Shop (Bad Taste Records)

Founded 1986 by The Sugarcubes (Björk, Einar Örn). Legendary indie label / record shop / coffee bar. Browse vinyl from Sigur Rós, Björk, Múm, GusGus. Great espresso. ~5 min walk from Hallgrímskirkja. 25–30 min.

💰 Free entry. Coffee ~600–800 ISK.

Address: Hverfisgata 32, 101 Reykjavík | Hours: Mon–Sat 12pm–6pm, Sun 12pm–5pm

~1:50pm: Laugavegur street — browse shops, street art, grab a cinnamon bun from Brauð & Co; 30 min

~2:20pm: Harpa Concert Hall (waterfront, 10 min walk) — stunning glass facade, harbor views; 20 min

> 💰 Free to enter lobby and admire architecture. Guided tours 2,750 ISK if available.

~2:50pm: 🍽️ Icelandic Street Food (Laugavegur 72) — lamb soup in bread bowl with unlimited refills + free waffles; ~2,500–3,000 ISK (~$18–21). Best budget lunch in Reykjavík. 20 min.

> Pro tip: Start with the shellfish soup (not refillable), then switch to lamb or tomato for free refills. Free brownies and carrot cake at the counter.

~3:15pm: Drive to KEF (~45 min)

~4:00pm: Drop off campervan

5:00pm: KEF Departure ✈️

Weather	🌨️ Rain/snow, warmest day | 44°/38°F
Morning	Selfoss → Þingvellir 🐉 (Bloody Gate) → (opt: Þórufoss 🐉) → Geysir → Gullfoss
Afternoon	Reykjavík: Hallgrímskirkja 🗽 + Smékkleysa 🎵 + Laugavegur + Harpa + Icelandic Street Food 🍽️ → KEF
Night	✈️
Driving	~2.5 hrs

Day 5 Timing Analysis (v4 — Kerið Cut)

Cutting Kerið saves ~50 min (35 min roundtrip detour + 15 min visit). Combined with the Selfoss overnight from v3:

Segment	Planned Time	Notes
Selfoss → Þingvellir	7:00–7:45am (45 min)	Selfoss saves 45 min vs. Skógar
Þingvellir + Öxarárfoss	7:45–8:45am (1 hr)	💰 Parking 750 ISK
Drive to Geysir	8:45–9:30am (45 min)	—
Geysir + Gullfoss	9:30–11:30am (2 hrs)	💰 Geysir parking 1,000 ISK
Drive to Reykjavík	11:30am–12:45pm (1 hr 15 min)	Direct, no Kerið detour
Reykjavík downtown	12:45–3:15pm (2.5 hrs)	+1 hr gained vs. v3 ✓
Drive to KEF	3:15–4:00pm (45 min)	—
Buffer before 5pm flight	—	1 hr buffer ✓

What was cut: Kerið Crater (600 ISK entry, 15-min rim walk). It's the smallest-payoff Golden Circle stop — a brief crater overlook. The 2.5 hrs in Reykjavík is a much better trade. Þórufoss detour (~30 min) only if ahead of schedule by 8:30am.

Weather-Aware Campervan Tips

- Waterproof everything: All 5 days show precipitation. Outer shell (jacket + pants), waterproof boots with ankle support, and a wind-resistant mid layer are non-negotiable. Pack a dry bag for electronics and cameras.
- Microspikes on every hike: With lows at 32°F, trail surfaces will freeze overnight. Reykjadalur, Svartifoss, and Kristínartindar all have icy sections in March.
- Check vedur.is every morning: Wind is the #1 hazard. Gusts between Höfn and Vík regularly exceed 80 km/h. If vedur.is shows orange/red wind alerts, delay driving or shorten exposed stops (Dyrhólaey, Reynisfjara, Lómagnúpur, Stokksnes).
- Fuel up at every stop: Vík, Kirkjubæjarklaustur, Höfn, Selfoss. Don't pass a pump with less than half a tank.
- Wild camping is illegal: All stops are designated campervan-friendly sites with heated bathrooms and self-pay boxes.
- Reykjadalur (Day 1): Wear bathing suit under hiking clothes. Bring towel and microspikes. The rain makes the hot river soak better, not worse.
- Reynisfjara (Day 1): Never turn your back on the ocean. Stay above the wet sand line. Sneaker waves have killed tourists here.
- Fjaðrárgljúfur (Day 2): Sometimes closed for environmental protection. Check status at Kirkjubæjarklaustur visitor center or online before the detour.
- Kristínartindar (Day 4): At 1,126m, expect 5–10°C colder than road level with stronger gusts. If wind is severe, the Skaftafellsheiði plateau trail is a lower-elevation alternative. Ask the ranger.
- Þórufoss (Day 5, optional): Route 48 is gravel, potentially icy. Check road.is.
- Smékkleysa opens at noon: Day 5 has you arriving ~1:50pm — confirmed open.
- Parking in Reykjavík: Metered downtown (zones P1–P4). The Fríkirkjuvegur lot near the pond or Skúlagata area may be easier for a campervan. Budget ~15 min for parking logistics.
- Northern Lights bonus: March is excellent for aurora viewing. Check vedur.is aurora forecast nightly. Best spots: Þingvellir, near Vík, or Höfn outskirts. Need Kp ≥3, clear skies, no moon. Your campervan lets you chase clear patches.
- Emergency: Download the 112 Iceland app. Register your travel plan at safetravel.is. Cell coverage is good on Route 1 but patchy east of Kirkjubæjarklaustur.
